EDITOR'S NOTE

We are thrilled to share a significant milestone in our journey. The Oxford Club has officially transitioned to The Royal Club. This transformation marks more than a change in name; it signifies our evolution from a distinguished U.K.-based institution to a truly global platform for international business leaders, researchers, innovators, and social entrepreneurs.

In this issue, we dive deep into the latest club updates, insights, and strategies shaping today's dynamic business landscape. From sustainable development and leadership to the future of work, we spotlight thought leaders and changemakers who are driving meaningful impact and transformation.

Our mission remains clear: to equip you with actionable intelligence that empowers you to navigate challenges, embrace innovation, and seize opportunities on your business journey.

Thank you for being an integral part of our growing global community of forward-thinking professionals. We look forward to continuing this exciting new chapter with you together as The Royal Club.

Warm regards,
Editor-in-Chief

THE ROYAL CLUB

VISION 2030

WHERE LEGACY MEETS LEADERSHIP

Expanding Horizons

The Royal Club (TRC) is not just rooted in tradition – it is defined by forward-thinking ambition. While we continue to honour our Oxford heritage, our reach now extends far beyond the UK. From London to Dubai, from New York to Singapore, The Royal Club (TRC) brings together high-impact individuals, innovators, and change-makers from across the globe. Our vision is to create a truly international nexus where business leaders, investors, creatives, and thought leaders can connect, collaborate, and shape global progress.

Sustainability at Our Core

In a world that demands more conscious leadership, we are proud to place business sustainability at the heart of our mission. The Royal Club (TRC) empowers its members to build future-ready enterprises – balancing profit with purpose. We facilitate education, investment, and collaboration in sustainable technologies, green finance, and ESG (Environmental, Social & Governance) strategies. As part of our pledge, we are introducing carbon-conscious event planning, digital-first networking, and a commitment to net-zero operations by 2030.

Powering Connections That Matter

True influence lies in meaningful connections. The Royal Club (TRC) curates exclusive experiences, strategic roundtables, and global retreats – designed to connect visionaries across industries.

Leading by Example

Leadership is more than status – it's stewardship. That's why our members are encouraged to not only build profitable ventures but to leave lasting legacies. Through tailored workshops, impact initiatives, and ESG-focused forums, we empower our community to lead with conscience, embracing solutions that reduce environmental impact and advance equitable growth.

Our Commitment to the Planet

From reducing single-use plastics at events to offering digital-first member services, The Royal Club (TRC) is proactively reducing its carbon footprint. Together with our members, we are building a cleaner, smarter, and more resilient future.

TALE OF TWO CITIES – BOSTON & LONDON

In this modern reflection of Dickensian duality, Boston and London emerge not as rivals, but as complementary pillars of transatlantic influence. Each city, steeped in history and resilience, tells a tale of innovation, identity, and reinvention.

Boston, with its roots in revolution and academia, pulses with intellectual vigor and entrepreneurial spirit. London, timeless and cosmopolitan, balances tradition with transformation, serving as a global stage for finance, culture, and diplomacy.

Together, they form a narrative of two cities bound by legacy yet driven by the future bridging continents through shared ideals of progress, leadership, and global connectivity.

This is not a tale of conflict, but one of convergence where East meets West in a symphony of ideas, ambition, and enduring influence.

ARICON & BOSTON AWARDS 2025 PARTICIPANTS ENJOY EXCLUSIVE HARVARD AND MIT TOURS AHEAD OF PRESTIGIOUS CONFERENCE

APRIL 10-11 | BOSTON-CAMBRIDGE, MA

In a remarkable prelude to the ARICON Conference and Boston Awards 2025, members of The Royal Club (TRC) formerly known as The Oxford Club embarked on an enriching private tour of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) on April 10. These immersive campus visits offered a rare and intimate glimpse into two of the world's most celebrated academic institutions.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY: A WALK THROUGH HISTORY AND INNOVATION

The day began in Cambridge with a 90-minute private tour of Harvard University, led by current Harvard students. Participants explored the university's iconic landmarks, weaving through centuries of academic excellence and tradition.

Highlights included:

- Harvard Square -the vibrant center of campus and city life
- Old Yard and New Yard-reflecting Harvard's evolution from colonial roots to modern scholarship
- Johnston Gate -the iconic entrance to Harvard Yard
- John Harvard Statue -affectionately known as the "Statue of Three Lies"
- Massachusetts Hall-Harvard's oldest surviving building
- Harvard Science Center, Harvard Memorial Church, and the legendary Widener Library

Through personal anecdotes and student insights, the tour provided an authentic window into the daily rhythm and historic legacy of Harvard.

MIT: INNOVATION AND IMAGINATION IN ACTION

Later in the day, participants made their way to the nearby Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) for an equally inspiring guided tour, hosted by current MIT students many of whom are budding scientists, engineers, and changemakers.

Landmarks visited included:

- The Great Dome - the symbolic heart of MIT
- Stata Center - an architectural marvel and AI research hub
- MIT Chapel and Kresge Auditorium - spaces of reflection and cultural expression
- Smoot Bridge -a quirky campus favorite with its unique unit of measurement
- The Green Building-MIT's tallest structure and scientific stronghold
- East and West Campuses - showcasing innovation, diversity, and student life

The tour offered participants a tangible experience of MIT's pioneering spirit and academic vibrancy.

A CELEBRATION OF GLOBAL TALENT AND COLLABORATION

The tours and the conference together reflected TRC's mission to foster global understanding through academic and cultural exchanges. The Royal Club's commitment to excellence, intellectual curiosity, and international collaboration was deeply felt throughout the event.

"This entire experience from walking through the halls of Harvard and MIT to celebrating extraordinary minds has been nothing short of inspiring," said a TRC member.

As the curtains closed on the ARICON & Boston Awards 2025, participants departed with new knowledge, meaningful connections, and memories of a truly transformative experience in the heart of academia.

SUMMER CELEBRATIONS IN LONDON

London Lights Up with Grand “Summer Celebrations” Hosted by The Royal Club & LISD - An Unforgettable Global Gathering of Leaders, Legacy & Luxury

The British capital came alive this July as The Royal Club, in collaboration with the London Institute of Skills Development (LISD), unveiled its spectacular Summer Celebrations 2025 a dazzling series of high-profile events that brought together thought leaders, changemakers, and dignitaries from over 15 countries.

Over four breathtaking days, attendees were immersed in an exclusive showcase of British history, academic brilliance, and elite global networking reaffirming London’s place as the heart of diplomacy, legacy, and culture.

KICKING OFF IN ROYAL STYLE: JULY 19TH - A WALK THROUGH A THOUSAND YEARS

The celebrations commenced on July 19 with a VIP-only tour of the British Parliament, offering invited guests a rare behind-the-scenes experience of one of the world’s oldest democratic institutions. The House of Lords and House of Commons opened their doors to this international delegation, highlighting more than a millennium of governance, legacy, and architectural marvels.

Hosted under strict ceremonial protocol, the guests walked the same halls as monarchs, prime ministers, and visionaries an awe-inspiring beginning to the days that followed.

ARICON 2025 KING'S COLLEGE LONDON: ACADEMIC BRILLIANCE UNLEASHED - JULY 21

The celebration’s intellectual epicenter arrived on July 21 with the much-anticipated ARICON International Conference at King’s College London Strand Campus. Under the patronage of The Royal Club, and managed by LISD, this scholarly summit welcomed global academics, entrepreneurs, researchers, and industry pioneers under one roof.

With panels on sustainability, innovation, leadership, education, digital transformation, and more, ARICON 2025 established itself as a global lighthouse of research and knowledge exchange, producing groundbreaking insights and international collaborations. Delegates hailed the event as a hallmark of academic diplomacy.

The research presenters include Prof. Dr. Wannawee Boonkoum, Dr. Duangnapa Srinuntawong and Dr. Jittakorn Wongprasert from Silpakorn University, Thailand; Dr. Nawar Golley from American University of Sharjah, UAE; Ms. Fatima Zaman – the CEO of Care foundation U.K; Ms. AlAnoud I. Mr. Rainer Doemen also presented his research and insights over green economy and sustainable. development. Dr. Hanin Alsahli , an English Language Assistant Professor at King Saud bin Abdulaziz University for Health Sciences, was also among the listeners.

THAMES RIVER CRUISE: JULY 22 - THE CELEBRATION SETS SAIL

Just when the city thought it had seen it all July 22 delivered a sunset cruise down the River Thames, an opulent and lively evening as guests enjoyed panoramic views of London's skyline aboard a luxury vessel.

As the Tower Bridge lifted in salute, glasses clinked in celebration of friendships old and new. International melodies filled the air, gourmet cuisine delighted palates, and laughter echoed across the deck as global unity danced against London's shimmering skyline.

From Big Ben to the Shard, the cruise symbolized not only sightseeing, but the seamless merging of cultures and conversations that defined the Summer Celebrations.

A Global Gathering Like No Other

"This isn't just a celebration," said Dr. Mariya H. Nadeem, Director of Business Development & Communications at LISD. "It's a movement – of people, purpose, and partnerships. The Royal Club and LISD are building a world where diplomacy, education, and excellence walk hand-in-hand."

KING'S AWARDS FOR EXCELLENCE 2025: GLOBAL PRESTIGE, LONDON LEGACY

Representatives from the UK, U.S., Germany, Tanzania, Kenya, Georgia, South Africa, China, Nigeria, Rwanda, Turkey, India, and more were present making the Summer Celebrations a truly global milestone.

The Royal Club, having recently undergone its transformative rebranding from The Oxford Club UK, continues to affirm its place as an elite platform for global leaders, influencers, and institutions.

The Royal Club Unveils King's Awards for Excellence 2025 in a Glittering Ceremony at the House of Lords on July 23, 2025. The grandeur of British heritage met global excellence at the King's Awards for Excellence 2025, held at the iconic House of Lords, Westminster. The prestigious event, masterfully hosted by Mr. Mark Jones, marked a bold new era with the official transformation of The Oxford Club UK into The Royal Club.

The evening commenced with a stirring bagpipe performance by Millie Scott, followed by a networking reception in the Reid Room. As the clock struck 7 PM, guests transitioned to the Attlee Room, where the ceremony officially began. In his opening remarks, Mr. Jones set the tone with a spirited toast to innovation, leadership, and legacy, unveiling the newly rebranded Royal Club as a forward-thinking hub of elite global leadership and sustainability.

SUSTAINABLE BUSINESS IN THE CURRENT ERA

In today's rapidly changing world, sustainability is no longer a choice but a necessity for businesses aiming to thrive. With the increasing awareness of climate change, environmental degradation, and social inequality, sustainable business practices have moved to the forefront of global corporate agendas. Companies are now expected to go beyond profit-making and take responsibility for their environmental and social impacts.

Sustainable businesses focus on long-term value creation by integrating environmental, social, and governance (ESG) principles into their operations. This includes reducing carbon emissions, minimizing waste through circular economy models, conserving resources, ensuring ethical supply chains, and fostering inclusive workplaces. These strategies not only help protect the planet but also appeal to modern consumers who prioritize purpose-driven brands.

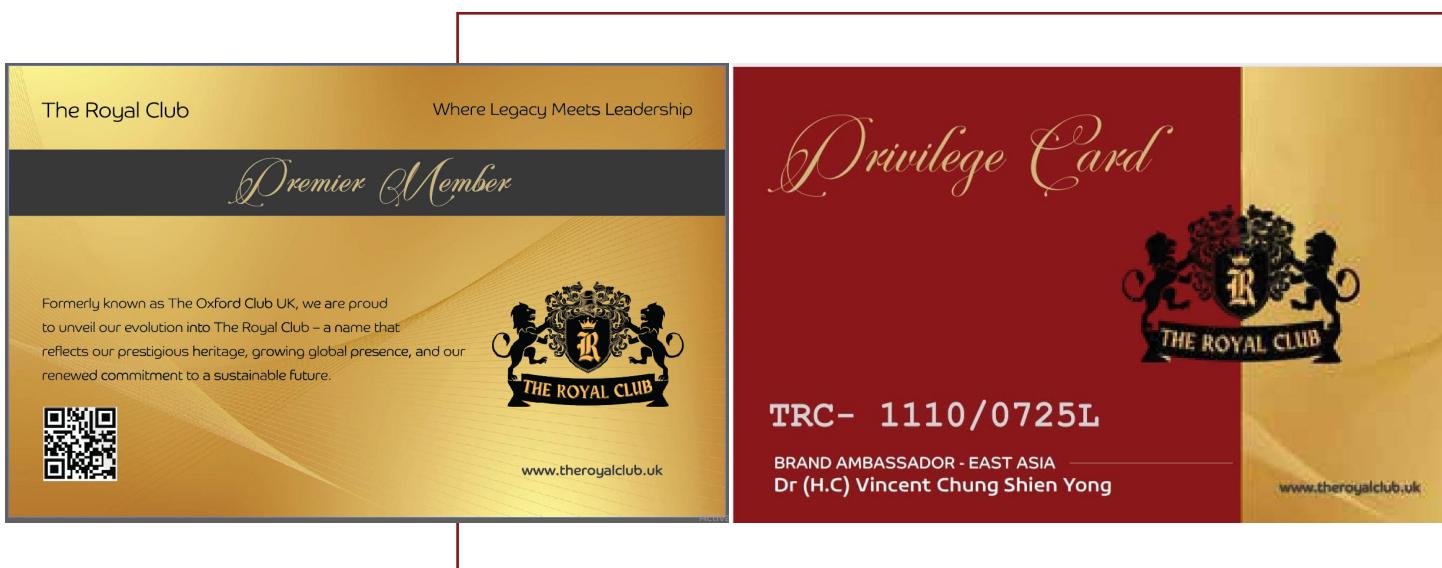

The shift toward sustainability is also driven by investors who favor businesses with strong ESG performance, recognizing that such companies are better positioned for long-term success and risk management. Regulatory bodies worldwide are increasing pressure on corporations to disclose sustainability metrics and reduce their environmental impact, further reinforcing the importance of sustainable practices.

Innovation plays a key role in this transformation. Businesses are investing in green technologies, digital solutions, and eco-friendly product designs that align with sustainability goals. From startups to multinational corporations, the message is clear: sustainability is central to resilience and growth in the 21st century.

Ultimately, embracing sustainability enables businesses to not only contribute to global well-being but also gain a competitive edge, build trust, and secure a lasting presence in a responsible future economy.
